

GLEDSTONE HALL STATELY HOME

Project Description:

The project comprised the complete refurbishment of a stately home in North Yorkshire to provide accommodation for the new owners. The building was one of the last stately homes designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens.

The design aimed to keep in line with the original design of the house. Lighting was mostly provided via concealed floor sockets serving standard and table lamps. The electrical services included lighting, emergency lighting, Fire alarms, security systems and integrated hi-fi system.
